Rationale – What is the justification for the above?

During the process of the project, Jamie has proven to be an exceptionally valuable team member. Whenever we had any issues with the project, we easily collaborated with each other to help resolve any issues either of us had come across. Since we share the same working schedule, we were also able to work alongside and offer advice at any given time. When suggesting features or improvements either giving them to each other verbally or in the code via comments, we both would usually just work with that improvement or come up with a counter-improvement that we could both agree on.

Rationale – What is the justification for the above?

Brandon without fail would implement a feature within the project, and where possible, he dedicated his time to the project. Ideas were talked about with each other and when two ideas arose, there were never a clash, but a compromise. Brandon fully supported the project in the best he could, and given another opportunity, I would work with him again.
